

2.8 million children. In Germany. In poverty.

A disgrace we can no longer ignore

Germany is the fourth largest economy in the world. And almost every fifth child grows up in poverty.

That is not a statistic. Those are children.

What child poverty really means

No sports club. No music lessons. No school trip. No laptop. No own room to study. And the silent, paralysing shame of a child that is different.

Poverty in childhood is not a temporary state. It leaves marks that last a lifetime.

What would actually help

- Free childcare and school meals
- Free tutoring and support for all children
- Simple unbureaucratic help that actually reaches families

Children have no lobby. They just wait. And they deserve more than promises.
